VERIFIABLE SCIENCE

The omega-3 essential fatty acid EPA is primarily associated with healthy arachidonic acid metabolism. In an 8-week, double-blind study using high EPA, supercritical-extracted fish oil, subjects reported support for healthy emotional well-being.<sup>1</sup> In observational and epidemiological studies, higher plasma levels of EPA have been associated with healthy mood.<sup>2,3</sup> Fish oil containing EPA has also been associated with healthy lipid metabolism,<sup>4</sup> platelet function, vascular health,<sup>5</sup> joint function,<sup>6</sup> memory<sup>7</sup> and skin health.<sup>8†</sup>
